SINCE PEARL HARBOR

A great deal of history has flowed under the bridge of time since that quiet sabbath morning two years ago when a Jap-created Hell suddenly fell from the heavens and marked December 7, 1941, as the "Day of Infamy."

"Since Pearl Harbor" has become an expression denoting a profound change in our way of life, for in the flames that leaped up from the stricken ships and barracks, the ease and apathy of the "old order" were consumed and from their ashes arose a new spirit of determination and of devotion to the cause of world freedom.

The bursting bombs that were heard 'round the globe shattered our dream of smug security. We awoke to stark, startling realities. We discovered that we lived not merely on a continent but in a world. We found that our forefathers had not bought liberty for us with their blood. Rather, we learned that they had but made a down payment and that each generation must maintain the installments. Ours was long overdue.

The shock cleared our heads. We swung into the task that lay before us. Almost overnight we rebuilt industrial America and geared it to the tempo of war. We marshalled our manpower and sent our troops to fight all over the world. We "cleared the decks" at home—scoured the attic, garage and backyard for iron, rubber and tin. We dug into our pockets for billions of dollars to finance the fight.

We shall not forget Pearl Harbor. But today we are not spending our time "remembering" it. Our every thought, our every bit of energy must be devoted to the gigantic job yet to be done. But when it is done—as it surely will be—we shall write across the black page of December 7, 1941, this inscription, "Paid in Full."

FOURTH WAR LOAN DRIVE

Number four—coming up!

The Fourth War Loan drive, aimed at $14 billion has just been announced by Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau. It is scheduled from January 18 to February 15, 1944—less than sixty days away.

Especial emphasis is put on the $5½ billion quota assigned to individual purchasers—half a billion above the amount set in the last bond drive.

Better save some of that Christmas money so that you will be well fortified to do your share in financial round four. The purchase of War Bonds by wage and salary earners is a potent weapon for "shooting down" the inflation balloons that are hanging over us. This follows logically since tremendous purchasing power lies in the pockets of the great mass of people with incomes under $5,000.

The fact that California's largest branch banking institution sold nearly twice as many War Bonds to small investors in October than in September indicates that the Third War Loan served to more thoroughly awaken the average man to the need of greater financial support of the war effort.

Remember—buying bonds is only half the story—holding onto them is the other half. And we need the whole story! Nothing less will win.

Julia says— Plan Your War-Time Marketing

THESE DAYS, when some of our favorite foods aren't so easy to get, each of us must become a "Kitchen General" in fact as well as in theory. In wartime, we at home have to consider our available supplies and plan to use them to best advantage.

What's the first thing a general does before mapping his plan of military action? He looks the situation over, of course, and sees what the problems are —and then figures what to do about them. We, as Kitchen Generals, must do the same.

Just about the biggest problem we Kitchen Generals have to face, these wartime days, is how to keep our families strong and well-fed by using the foods that are available. And here are some plans—for buying, keeping, and using foods—that will go a long way toward solving that problem:

1. Plan your meals for a week ahead, with alternate choices so you can use second-choice if first-choice isn't available.
2. Try new foods when the usual foods are sparse.
3. Buy fresh produce before spending ration stamps on canned foods.
4. Buy only enough perishable foods to last out the week.
5. Cover fresh meat loosely before placing in refrigerator (ground meat must be kept very cool, and cooked soon).
6. Store every item of food where it will keep best until used.
7. Let your family eat some fruits and vegetables raw; cook others without removing their skins, jackets or natural covering.
8. In cooking vegetables, use the minimum amount of water and don't over-cook.
9. Use vegetable cooking water right with the vegetable, or in a soup, salad, or gravy.
10. Don't waste scraps: use bread crumbs in stuffing, meat bones and remnants for soup stock, excess vegetables in pies or hash.
11. Serve only as much on each plate as will be eaten.

Those are some of the plans we Kitchen Generals can follow in our campaign to keep the home front strong and healthy.

That's a job of first importance for each of us these days. In the kind of war we are fighting—and winning!—everyone must be able to do his best.

And it helps if we all keep in mind, day after day, the true statement: Food Fights for Freedom!

Let's do our part!

Julia Lee Wright Director
